

Your support helps us save lives through stem cells

Without the lifesaving stem cell transplant Miles had when he was one year old, he wouldn't be here today. And thanks to Anthony Nolan being able to find him a matching donor on our register – who in an amazing coincidence works at the same place as his dad – he is now a happy, healthy little boy enjoying his life to the full.

There are so many other patients like Miles searching for the stranger that might just save their life. And we need your help to add more people to the stem cell register, ready to step in and be that lifesaver.

It costs us £40 to add another person to our stem cell register.

Using the simple, tax-efficient payroll giving system your generous donations can go even further and help us add even more lifesavers-in-waiting to the register.

Saving lives through stem cells

Make every donation

go further with payroll giving

Every donation made to Anthony Nolan helps us save lives through stem cells. And with Payroll Giving your generosity can go even further – at no extra cost to you.

By making regular gifts straight from your salary, this efficient and simple method of support can have even more impact – because it's tax free.

So a monthly donation of £10 would only cost a basic rate taxpayer £8 – with the Government paying the rest!

Over a year, that generosity could pay to add three new potential donors to our stem cell register – that's three more people who could be someone's lifesaving match.

How we spend every pound of our overall income
